Bringing fashion into line: shoulder pads

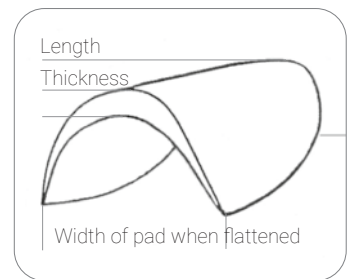

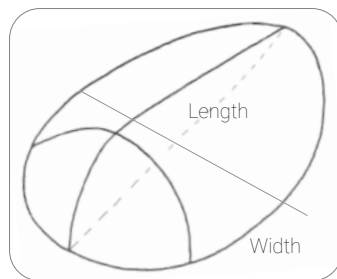

Fashionable shoulder pads model the shoulders to give the waist a slimmer appearance and accentuate the feminine silhouette.

Today, shoulder pads are available in different varieties for any use imaginable – with or without hook and loop fastening, loose for sewing between lining and upper fabric, as soft pads, and in free form versions which can be cut to size and worn directly on the skin.

The use of high-quality materials ensures that Prym shoulder pads can be gently washed in the machine without them losing shape.

In principle, shoulder pads are available in two different models: set-in and raglan.

The width of pads for set-in sleeves is determined while flattened. Raglan is measured as shaped. The thickness is always measured where thickest.

Raglan

Raglan pads are suitable for garments with raglan sleeves. Covering the shoulder, they accentuate the silhouette for a rounder and softer shape.

Set-in

Set-in pads are suitable for set-in sleeves. They finish before the shoulder curving and sit before the sleeve seam. The silhouette is accentuated in a straight line.
